DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 28-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 28, line 9, there is no antecedent basis for “the third second of the second conductive element.” Applicant should clarify what is intended by “extend to a degree.” Claim 29 inherit the defects of the parent claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 28, as best understood in view of the rejection under 35 USC 112 second paragraph, is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tsutsumi et al. [US 5,751,203].

Tsutsumi et al. discloses a chassis/base [figure 5] for an inductor comprising:

- an insulating element consisting of first and second half portions; wherein the first and second half portions are symmetric with respect to one axis [see attachment];

- a first conductive element [10] disposed in the insulating element, extending from the first half portion to the second half portion, wherein the first conductive element includes first and second section; and

- a second conductive element [10] disposed in the insulating element, extending from the second half portion to the first half portion, wherein the second conductive element includes first and second section.

wherein the first section of the first conductive element and the first section of the second conductive element extend to a degree.

The structure of the first and second conductive elements would inherently preventing the chassis/base from breaking.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 29, as best understood in view of the rejection under 35 USC 112 second paragraph, is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tsutsumi et al. in view of Yamashita [JP 10-284331].

Tsutsumi et al. discloses the instant claimed invention except for the first conductive element including cavities/recesses formed in the top and bottom surfaces thereof.

Yamashita discloses an inductor including at least one conductive terminal element [3'] having cavities/recesses [3d, 3e, figure 7] formed on the top and bottom surfaces thereof.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to include cavities/recesses in the first conductive element of Tsutsumi et al., as suggested by Yamashita, for the purpose of facilitating manufacturing and molding.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 20-27 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 28-29 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
